

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A gaming machine comprising:

internal lottery means configured to hold an internal lottery of a game using a random number at a predetermined timing;

5 sound output means having a part exposed to a front surface of a cabinet of the gaming machine and configured to output sound toward a front direction;

light emission means disposed away from the exposed part of the sound output means and attached to the cabinet, the light 10 emission means configured to emit light; and a cover being provided to surround the exposed part of the sound output means and to cover the light emission means, wherein a light source of the light emission means is oriented to be substantially in parallel with the front surface 15 of the cabinet of the gaming machine.

2. The gaming machine as claimed in claim 1 further comprising a recess having a stepped part and formed on the front surface of the cabinet, wherein the sound output means comprises a part exposed 20 to a bottom of the recess, and wherein the light emission means is attached to the stepped part of the recess.

3. The gaming machine as claimed in claim 1, wherein the cover comprises a continuous asperities being formed on an inner 25 surface thereof.

4. The gaming machine as claimed in claim 1, wherein the light emission means comprises a light emitting diode.